

Dear partners,

We remind you that Université Clermont Auvergne will organize the 4th edition of the International Teaching Forum at Clermont-Ferrand (FRANCE), on November 14 and 15, 2019.

In line with the previous three conferences (two were held at Shanghai Normal University in China in 2016 and 2017 and one at Utah Valley University in the United States in 2018), the overall objective of the 4th International Teaching Forum will be to address innovative pedagogical practices in higher education in different countries. Over two days, teachers and researchers together will work on issues related to the contributions and limits of innovative teaching practices, based on experiments conducted more particularly (but not exclusively) in the field of communication and management. For this edition, the theme of pedagogical innovation will be addressed from the perspective of interculturality and skills. Papers will discuss how teaching pedagogies have fostered the creation of a context favorable to interculturality and facilitated the acquisition of transversal skills.

You will find attached the call for papers of the International Teaching Forum. Abstracts are expected on May 22nd, 2019.

This forum is eligible for Erasmus + Staff Mobility for Training.

We have a limited number of available places for participants who want just to attend the conference without presenting a paper. If this is your case, please fill in the online application form clicking on the following link: <https://goo.gl/forms/L1372AjdKmLDp15n1>

Application deadline for participating without presenting : June 20th 2019.

We will inform you about the approval of your application at the end of June.

Please, do not reply to this email address. If you have any question, you can contact

For scientific part: Cecilia Brassier-Rodrigues, Coordinator of the conference: cecilia.brassier@uca.fr

For administrative part: Alice Le Monnyer, International Relations at UCA : alice.le_monnyer@uca.fr

Kind regards