

Dear colleagues,

Having faculty and staff members that are experienced, highly motivated, and willing to learn is the greatest asset of every school. CEEMAN has a long tradition in supporting management education institutions in grooming their cadre of rising stars, and we invite your high-potential staff and faculty members to our international development programs, taking place in the stunning environment of Lake Bled, Slovenia.

The registration is open and early-bird rates available for two of our most popular events:

- Program Management Seminar, taking place on 22-24 April 2020, is intended for program managers and administrators in charge of design, promotion and delivery of management education programs. Register here.
- IMTA-International Management Teachers Academy, taking place on 14-25 June 2020, is typically attended by junior faculty and those who would like to upgrade and expand their teaching arsenal, as well as business practitioners or consultants who are moving more into teaching. IMTA again welcomes applications also from alumni for attending Week 2 only (another disciplinary track) Register here.

Register your participants now to benefit from early-bird rates and secure the place!

For participants coming from EU member states, we recommend contacting their Erasmus office/coordinator about the possibility of covering travel and accommodation costs as part of staff/teachers mobility program. IEDC-Bled School of Management is the host of both events and can provide necessary documentation from our side.

We look forward to welcoming your participants in Bled!

With best wishes,

The International Association
for Management Development
in Dynamic Societies
