Lecturer: Senior Lecturer PhD. Corina SEIMAN

„Learning must sometimes be a journey; always a horizon.” Nicolae Iorga

Corina Seiman is Senior Lecturer at the Faculty of Chemistry, Biology, Geography, from West University of Timisoara, with a career of almost 20 years of teaching.

I followed the path of her university career after graduating Chemistry-Biology Bachelor Degree, moreover I studied the University of Medicine and Pharmacy courses, the Pharmacy Specialization, and then the Biology Specialization, going through the stages of development and continuing education, completing the Doctoral studies in Chemistry and Medicine, obtaining through a National Residency Competition the Specialization of Clinical Pharmacy, then the Specialty of Specialist Pharmacist. Currently follow the courses of the Faculty of Law at West University of Timisoara.

The interest in Pharmacology, Clinical Biochemistry, Toxicology, have brought multiple benefits in the development built on a constant process of assimilation and learning that personifies the ability to model and coagulate both teaching and scientific partnerships.

Enthusiasm has the necessary vigilance for me in coagulating the directions of permanent development, teaching, persuasiveness in the cognitive-behavioral modeling of some typologies that come in the maintenance of the teaching act.

Through the multidisciplinary qualification, I have tried over time to outline a path from which to intertwine transdisciplinary aspects, which would bring a useful area, with the perspectives of scientific process that have persuasive and creative applicability.

My personal belief is based on the idea "If you want something you will find a way, if not an excuse". The characteristic typology is one that leaves value if the principles are the noblest, which guided me despite any difficulties.
