

We are pleased to invite you to our international week concerning practice-oriented scientific research and research management at AP University of Applied Sciences and Arts Antwerp. The event will take place from Tuesday, November 14th to Thursday, November 16th, 2023 at our campuses in Antwerp, Belgium.

AP invests in the innovative development of various professional fields through research and education. To achieve this we set up durable collaborations with national and international partners, both professional and academic. We organise this week to further develop these academic international partnerships concerning our research initiatives. Our goal is thus to build bridges and strong partnerships with like-minded colleagues across borders, to learn, to better understand and to collaborate.

Aside from a general programme, each participant will be invited to partake in one of the following tracks:

- For research & services support staff: we offer one track with different themes:
  - How to support researchers to develop and achieve sustainable impact
  - How to organise the ideal project management office
  - How to support researchers in project applications and project management
- For researchers: we offer you different thematic tracks, including:
  - Futureproof learning and education
  - Health and prevention
  - Measuring soft skills and soft skill development: exploring alternatives
  - ...

The programme will consist of discussions, workshops, a poster conference and of course sightseeing in the beautiful city of Antwerp. The activities will be held in English. More updates on the programme and registration will follow in September. The international week can be included in the Erasmus+ programme.

We would be honoured to welcome you all in November, so please notify your colleagues if applicable to them.

Want to know more? Inform us of your interest via this form or send an e-mail to research@ap.be.