

Join the training "Roadmap of the International Student Lifecycle" at Universidad Autónoma de Madrid (UAM), Spain – 22-24th November.

The Erasmus Careers consortium is glad to announce the organisation of the staff training titled "Roadmap of the International Student Lifecycle", taking place from the 22nd to the 24th of November at the Autonomous University of Madrid (UAM). The training is targeted at higher education staff working with international students with the aim to increase their understanding of the international student lifecycle by providing practical exercises based on theory and good practices. The goal is to better understand the international student journey, with a particular focus on their needs as well as how to adequately support them.

The participation fee is 50 euros, and it includes coffee breaks, the welcome cocktail, one dinner, and two lunches. Participants' travel and accommodation costs are not covered.

Apply by the 30th of September through in the link below. The maximum number of participants is 25. Participation will be confirmed after the selection process with an email from the UAM team. Should you have any questions, do not hesitate to contact the training's organisers at erasmuscareers@uam.es in case of questions.
