

Intercomprehension for Specific Purposes: tourism in rural areas

General information
Objectives and Description: Intercomprehension is a communicative approach where several languages of the same linguistic family are studied/used in parallel; these are either languages related to the learner's mother tongue (or the language of education) or related to a language already learnt. There is a systematic focus on receptive skills, as the development of comprehension is the most tangible way of using the knowledge of a related language to learn a new one. This specific approach is characterized by one distinguishing feature: whole linguistic families (the Romance family in our case) are the object of learning activities. The only pre-condition needed is that one of the languages must be already mastered by the learners, either as their mother tongue or as a second language (FREPA 2012: 7).
Methods and outcomes: During the intensive week students will consolidate knowledge and skills developed during the online part of the BIP; furthermore, they will focus on the techniques and principles of IC in the Language for Specific Purposes (LSP) "Tourism in rural areas" contexts, participating to content classes (using video recordings, simulations, or actual classes depending on availability). The students will spend one night in a mountain refuge and will go on mountain hikes. Therefore, a sleeping bag and appropriate trekking gear are required (hiking boots, suitable clothing for excursions, and sun protection).
